

Appendix 56c to
THE HISTORY OF SCOUTING IN SOUTH GEORGIA

(Appendix Updated on: June 17, 2015)

1952 Camp Osborn Photos

This “Snake Rain Dance” was performed during the council fire on a parent’s night in 1952. Shown above are Hugh Ector and Mack Williams. Also dancing but not shown was Jack Duskin.

The Snake Rain Dance was a regular part of the parent’s night festivities during the 1950s and many of the local farmers had been guests of the scouts. According to the article, which accompanied the photo, on this night in 1952, one of the farmers had joking requested the dance due to the on-going drought. It rained 23 ½ inches the next day and broke the drought.<sup>1</sup>

(The photo is from microfilm, thus the poor quality. Photo from The Albany Herald. Used by permission.)

<sup>1</sup> “Scouts Make Like Hopi Indians, The Albany Herald, June 29, 1952.

The swimming pool in 1952.

(The photo is from microfilm, thus the poor quality. Photo from The Albany Herald. Used by permission.)

Troop 7 of Albany at Camp Osborn in 1952.

(The photo is from microfilm, thus the poor quality. Photo from The Albany Herald. Used by permission.)

1952 Staff at Camp Osborn

(The photo is from microfilm, thus the poor quality. Photo from The Albany Herald. Used by permission.)

